

Marketing and Outreach Intern / National Organizer Global Day of Jewish Learning

Limmud North America animates Jewish community by spreading Jewish ideas, bringing people of diverse backgrounds together to learn from and with each other. The Global Day of Jewish Learning was founded in 2009, inspired by the vision of Rabbi Adin Steinsaltz z"l to bring together Jews around the world, united in appreciation of Jewish text. The Global Day was adopted into the Limmud family of programs in 2020.

The Global Day of Jewish Learning will be held this year on November 17, 2024, with hundreds of participating sites spanning the globe.

Description of Tasks:

- Recruit past and prospective GDJL sites to participate for the program
- Coordinate GDJL curriculum development including the gathering and editing of materials from our educational partners
- Communicate with participating sites to answer questions as they arise
- Create marketing emails, social media content and other communications as appropriate
- Support the day-of operations for GDJL including staffing virtual learning sessions, sending participant communications, answering questions from participants, etc.

This position will average 4-5 hours per week, with flexibility, and is entirely remote. The project will need support from March to November. The position will include time for mentorship and reflection on the dynamics of nonprofit management from the inside vantage point of a young startup organization.

This is an unpaid position, although university credit may be available for individuals to whom that would be of benefit.

To apply, please send your resume to hannah@limmudna.org.